ADJOURNMENT MOTION.

President: I have received notice of an adjournment motion, which runs as follows:

> "I beg to move the adjournment of the business of the House to discuss a definite matter of urgent public importance, viz., the famine and pestilence now raging in the country as a result of the total failure of the recent crops in many parts of the country and to request the Government to start immediate relief operations in rural areas."

Of course the latter portion of the sentence is surely inconsistent with the form in which an adjournment motion ought to be framed. If there is no objection raised by the House, I am prepared to allow the adjournment motion to be discussed at such time as I shall specify.

(After a pause)

No objection having been taken, the motion is admitted and it will be taken up for consideration to-morrow at half past three.

In fixing the order in which the demands are to be moved and voted upon, precedence has been given to the demands relating to the three departments of Land Revenue, Public Works and Education, whose activities, more than any other, are intimately connected with the welfare of the people. I have also taken care to see that the other demands too are so arranged as to enable the House to get an opportunity to discuss some of the demands which could not be fully discussed in previous years for want of time.

The demands for grants under I—Land Revenue, II—Public Works Department, and III—Education, may each be discussed for half a day. The remaining demands will have to be dealt with before the close of the fourth day and not more than one hour will be allotted, as usual, to any one of these demands.

In calculating the number of hours to be allotted for the voting of demands, the following procedure adopted last year will be
